During scrutiny of various contract files of works like transportation contracts and maintenance works of perennial nature it has been observed that existing contract is extended beyond the original award due to non-finalization of subsequent NIT and the contractor already working continues to execute the work. Such action deprives other contractors and eliminates competition. This is viewed as favouritism to the working contractor and attracts vigilance angle.

In order to avoid such a situation and to maintain continuity, it is desired that the action for finalization of contracts is taken well in time and orders are issued before expiry of the running contracts.
